GOOD POLICY.

The Bimetallic League Adopts Resolutions

Without Respect to Other Governments.

Our Nation Should Return to Its Former Policy.

Unlimited Coinage of Gold and Silver Advocated Without Preference to Either.

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—At the bimetallic convention today the report of the committee on resolutions, which was unanimously adopted, contained the following as the chief plank of its platform:

Resolved, That at the earliest moment that it can be legally done and without in any way considering the financial policy of any other nation or nations and ignoring all advice, suggestions or threats from any and every source. Our national government should return to the monetary policy of the fathers of the republic and the coinage ratio of gold and silver of 16 to 1 respectively. It should again permit to individuals the unlimited coinage of silver and gold in our national mints without preference to either metal; thus again making our silver and our gold coin for all purposes in this country without discrimination, for or against either, thereby again making our silver dollar as it should always have remained—the standard unit for measure of values.

PETRIFIED!

Discovery Made in the River Bottom

Of a Petrified Man by the Burnett Bros.

The Form Is Almost Perfect in Every Detail.

They Were Preparing to Go in Swimming When They Saw a Foot Protruding in the Sand.

It is said that Phoenix can produce almost anything under the sun and the latest wonder discovered is a genuine petrified man.

The find was made by J. K. Burnett, the expressman, and his brother, I. P. Burnett, who recently came down from Prescott. The two men drove down to the river yesterday morning after a load of sand. They entered the river bottom at Gray's crossing and continued to the main channel of the river. Before loading the wagon, I. P. Burnett thought a swim might be refreshing and he followed along a bank about five feet high in search of a place where the water was of sufficient depth.

While following closely along the bank he was astonished to see a human foot protruding from under the bank on a level with the gravel bed. He examined it closely and by digging the sand from around a petrified leg was exposed. He called to his brother who was loading the wagon to bring over a shovel. The implement was brought and by digging the sand from around the form the bank caved in and a little more shovelling exposed the perfect form of a petrified man.

They tried to move the form but it proved too heavy and one of them came back to town and had a large box made which he partially filled with coarse sawdust. The form was placed in the box and with the united efforts of three men was set in the wagon and taken to town and placed in Burnett's barn next to Lount's ice factory. J. K. Burnett allowed a Republican reporter to look at the find and a cursory glance was sufficient to show that it was a genuine petrified man.

The form is about 5 foot 10 inches in height and from all appearances must have been a man past the prime of life; for even in the petrified state the wrinkles on the face are discernable.

From the shape of the head he must have been a white man. The chin and nose are perfect in shape; but the former is slightly gashed, which Mr. Burnett says was done with the shovel. The ears are gone but the features are clear-cut and well defined. The legs and hands are also perfect even to the fingernails. He had evidently been carefully prepared for burial for one hand lies across the breast with the palm down and the other lies on the groin. The head is thrown back giving a clear view of the throat. On the abdomen is a cavity about the size of a dinner plate, but it is only on the surface; outside of this, the form is perfect. The color is of a dark sandstone and the form is susceptible to be easily broken. Chas. Burnett, a sculptor, examined the body and pronounced it to be a genuine petrified body.

The Burnetts are sensible of the fact that they have a bonanza in their petrified body and will leave it in the same condition as when it was found. They will have it on exhibition today at the Gregory house.

It is not generally known but it is nevertheless a fact that when the old city cemetery that occupied the ground where the West End school now stands was removed, many of the bodies exhumed were in various stages of petrification and what is to prevent a body from being petrified under the soil and same conditions in the river bottom? The lime in the water and soil had brought about petrification in this case but as the process is slow, it must have taken many years to bring about the condition in which the form was discovered by the Burnetts.

CAMPMEETING.

Good Congregations Daily Attend Services.

Willie Hadley Thrown From a Horse—Race Track Can Now Be Used on Certain Hours.

Wednesday morning prayer and praise service was led by Rev. Hedgepeth with members helping to carry on the prayer service to the edification and good of many. Mr. F. G. Wentworth got up and in a most impressive talk said he had experienced a great change of heart. His face was radiant with inward happiness, and no one could doubt his sincerity throughout. Mr.

Wentworth is a well known man and his word is his bond.

The service last night was attended by a large crowd. Rev. Harris preached for about forty minutes on the commercial and social relations of man and how closely they were related and how necessary was it to work in harmony. The congregation were very attentive throughout the very instructive sermon.

Robert Wright, a student from the Emory Virginia college, led in the afternoon service. He is a theological student preparing for the ministry and does credit to the profession espoused. His earnestness and good sensible argument argues well for his success in future work.

Miss Nellie Osborne led the ladies in prayer meeting last evening. Miss Nellie is not only a good little Christian but is willing "to do that which her hands find to do," and her efforts were crowned with abundant success.

Mrs. M. H. Williams and her niece, Miss Stewart, spent yesterday in camp. Miss Sears of Tempe is spending a few days at the camp with Miss Mattie Wright.

Better congregations continue each day and much interest is shown throughout.

After yesterday the young folks are allowed the use of the race track each afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30. This will doubtless be taken advantage of, as many young folks like to ride and this is by far the best track in the city.

Mr. N. S. Hadley, proprietor of the park, was taken violently ill yesterday and is now lying at his home on Center street under the care of Dr. Hughes.

Willie Hadley unfortunately rode a bucking horse with a rotten bridle the other day and came down on the ground with unusual force, thereby injuring his fingers as well as wrist. Willie is a good rider. No one doubts that, but that kind of boys get hurt.

Mrs. Carrie A. Burns of Los Angeles will return to her home Monday evening preparatory to taking a trip to Iowa to be gone three months, and on her return will come here to reside permanently. Miss Burns came here three months ago for health's sake and now returns fully recovered.

For a fine glass of lemonade or milk shake call at the tent of Mr. Hadley at the park gate and you will be pleased.

COPPER IS KING.

The Revival of an Important Arizona Industry.

The Advance in the Price of Copper Makes it a Metal Much in Demand.

From the Tucson Star.

Copper yesterday reached the highest point it has yet attained since the reaction, $12.30, an advance of $3 within the last three months. The rise has been steady and prospectors in the vicinity of Tucson have already begun to take advantage of it. Within a very short time the Tucson Smelting company has allowed an advance to its patrons from $1.45 a unit to $1.70 a unit on say 20 per cent ore. The present quotation of $12.30 is equivalent to about $1.90 a unit, so that the advance to patrons within the last ten days or two weeks is nearly $9 a ton, or say about 33½ per cent, a sufficient inducement to create activity in the copper mines.

It is said that in the territory tributary to Tucson there are now ten mines working to one a month ago. A mining man speaking of the outlook said yesterday that there are within a radius of 30 miles of Tucson not less than 1,000 locations, everyone of which can be profitably developed and operated at even the present prices.

But it is a dead certainty that the price cannot recede, but is bound for several reasons to advance steadily until at least the $20 mark is reached. In the first place quotations show that there has been in the last year a falling off in production in the United States of 50,000 tons. The demand for copper is greater than it has ever been before and it will necessarily increase. The present increase in demand comes from the additional and growing use of copper wire for electrical purposes.

These are given by financial papers as the chief reasons for the advance, but there is another which has sprung up too recently to have been taken into consideration. It is the late re-discovery of a process for welding copper with other metals. A variety of new uses of copper is thus brought into existence and it is estimated that the consumption will be increased by 50 per cent.

Such a condition of affairs will bring to Tucson along with all copper mining centers greater prosperity than it has ever known.

THE FAIR WILL.

Fight for the Estate Goes Merrily On.

A Controversy Over the Guardianship

Of Herman Oelrichs, Jr., One of the Heirs.

Paterson Says the Pencil Will Was a Forgery or Else Fair Was Crazy.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—Manager R. Paterson, ex-justice of the California supreme court, who was appointed by the probate court to represent the absent heirs in the Fair will controversy, has filed a brief to show that he and not Herman Oelrichs is the proper guardian of the interests of Herman Oelrichs, Jr., in the probate proceedings.

Paterson says it is ridiculous to say that the pencil will is valid. He argues that if the first or "stolen" will was made by Fair, a will that stands almost unprecedented in testamentary disposition, then the will made only three days later, the pencil will, is a forgery and Senator Fair was crazy.

TO TIE UP WITH REED.

Gov. Morrill Wants to Be Vice-President.

It is Said He is In the East Now to Effect a Combination to Be His Running Mate.

From the Topeka, (Kansas) Journal.

A week ago Governor E. N. Morrill left Kansas for a three weeks' trip through the east. His avowed purpose was to attend to some personal business matters and to enjoy a short period of recreation. It is announced that the real object of his visit is to close a deal with Thomas B. Reed, by which he is to support Reed for president, in return for which Reed will use his influence to make Morrill the nominee of the Republicans for vice-president. It is said the information was inadvertently given out by J. L. Bristow, private secretary to Governor Morrill, who, in his zeal to assist the governor in his ambition, solicited the assistance of a prominent Republican in enlisting the interest of western friends.

Morrill until recently was desirous of succeeding Peffer as United States senator, but he has been discouraged in this by the evident popularity of John J. Ingalls, who has announced his candidacy and is already engaged in making a canvass for the place. It is admitted even by the outspoken political enemies of the governor that he would have no difficulty in getting the Kansas delegation, as well as that of other western states. While on his eastern trip he will visit Mr. Reed and perfect his plans. It was his original intention to have his name first mentioned in connection with the vice-presidency in the east, and this plan would have been carried out but for the indiscretion of his private secretary.

The story is given color of truth by the fact that Governor Morrill and Congressman Reed have been close friends since early manhood, Morrill being a native of Maine and passing his early days there. They also served four terms in congress. As secretary of a board of school trustees in that state he issued the first teachers' certificate ever held by Mr. Reed. It is also said Governor Morrill will under no circumstances be a candidate for a re-nomination for governor, and that if he fails in his candidacy for vice-president he will retire permanently from politics.
